303	Muga Flor de Muga Rosè Rioja 2021 93 points Robert Parker “The wine fermented in oak vats where it matured for four months with the fine lees that were stirred. This is very pale and subtle but with good ripeness in the late-ripening zone where these grapes come from. It's fresh and light to medium-bodied, with clean aromas and flavors. It's elegant and subtle, terribly harmonious with complexity and depth. Possibly the finest vintage to date. Delicious!”	65

135	Andrew Will "Sorella" Horse Heaven Hills Red Blend 2011	95
~	Inky and dark when first poured, Chris Camarda's top selection in 2011 feels massive at first pass; it's mostly Cabernet drawn from the old-vine blocks at Champoux. With air its flavors turn a corner, as much savory as dark-fruited, leaning toward crushed pink peppercorn and ground sumac, with textures that seem to reflect that vine age in the finesse of their suave tannins. Those tannins carry a dusty minerality that is saturating but not heavy in the least.
